AWEA Fall Safety Workshop

The American Wind & Energy Association held their Fall Safety Workshop in Snowbird, Utah. The workshop featured speakers and demonstrations focusing on safety in all aspects of renewable energy and wind farm construction.

The demand for new wind farm construction has increased the need for safety and well-trained personnel on project sites. Mountain Crane provided a full safety demonstration for all attendees, walking them through the ins and outs of crane safety and accident prevention.

Attendees were also given safety booklets, courtesy of Mountain Crane, to use as guidelines out in the field and ensure safety on future projects.

Mountain Crane was glad to participate in this Safety Workshop and looks forward to many new renewable energy projects in the coming year.

Charity Golf Tournament

Many vendors and friends were able to take part in a great event hosted by Henkels & McCoy in Los Angeles, CA at the Pacific Palms Resort. All proceeds were donated to the MS Society.

Thanks to Henkels & McCoy for putting on a great event benefiting such a noble cause. Mountain Crane was happy to participate.

Reaching Higher on City Creek Block 75

Mountain Crane Service built up one of its LinkBelt LS348 300 ton crawler cranes downtown Salt Lake City. However, this was no ordinary build up. The crane was built on top of a 5-level parking structure. Each phase of the assembly process had to be carefully engineered so as to not exceed allowable ground bearing pressures.

As access and space were limited, the heavy haul semi used to bring in the crane's main house had to be lifted from the build up site.

Mountain Crane looks forward to working on the City Creek project with SME Steel and Jacobsen Construction.

Utah Mining Convention

Mountain Crane participated in this year's Utah Mining Convention and golf tournament in Park City, Utah.

We strive to provide top notch crane services within the mining industry and enjoy every opportunity we have to meet with these industry professionals.
